

TOP 10 THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT RECYCLING AT OHIO STATE

1. FOOD

Food scraps can contaminate recyclable materials. Rinse or scrape food remnants off recyclable items before placing them in recycling bins.

2. PLASTIC BAGS

Plastic bags get caught in the recycling facility sorting equipment, causing expensive time delays and fixes. Recycle plastic bags at your local grocery store.

3. RECYCLING SYMBOL AND NUMBERS

The recycling symbol and number printed on plastics indicates what type of plastic the item is made of but does not guarantee the item can be recycled. Ohio State only recycles plastics that are bottle, jug, and tub shaped.

4. COMPOSTABLE PRODUCTS

Compostable products should not be put into the recycling bins. If composting bins unavailable, the compostable waste should go into the trash.

5. PLASTICS AND PLASTIC BOTTLES

All plastics in a bottle or jug shape (having a narrower mouth than body) or a tub shape (such as butter or sour cream tubs) can be recycled. Other plastics, including plastic plates, cups, utensils, and straws are not recyclable.

6. NAPKINS, PAPER TOWELS, TISSUES, ETC.

Napkins, paper towels, tissues, etc., cannot be recycled. If compost bins are unavailable, please discard them into the trash.

7. STYROFOAM

Egg cartons, meat trays, to-go containers, cups or any Styrofoam previously in contact with food must go into the trash. Packaging Styrofoam is not recyclable.

8. PAPER COFFEE CUPS

Most paper coffee cups contain a coating for insulation and waterproofing, which makes them difficult to be recycled. Please dispose of your cup in the trash. (Cardboard sleeves can be removed and placed into the recycling bins.)

9. FOR RECYCLING EVERYDAY STANDARD PRODUCTS

If an item is not listed or pictured on the recycling bins, it is unlikely that the item can be recycled at Ohio State. If you have questions, visit footprint.osu.edu/recycling or contact us at recycle@osu.edu

10. LOCATION

What can be recycled varies widely from place to place so be sure to follow the recycling guidelines at your location.
